

Feedback

"I have tested the foldable model with wings, and it is fantastic. My suspicion that the press button might feel uncomfortable was not confirmed. In fact I can hardly feel the button. [...] The dragonfly pantyliner is really beautiful and very soft!"

"The comfort is really unique, no itching and hardly any scent. The absorbency can hold up to the competition of artificial pads at any time, really great."

"I had been put off as a potential customer by the 'wash within 24 h in cold water' for a long time – since having my Kulmines, I never soaked them, and I always wash them at 40 degrees with the next regular load, and my (crimson) pads have no stains."

"...After initial doubts if those tiny thingies (thong pantyliners) will hold in place and not wander around, I have realized after an extensive test that the liners do not only fit perfectly in all thongs used, but they also stay in place during sports and other physical activities (even in satin underwear ;-))..."

Anja Peters, OB-GYN: "My advice on daily use of pantyliners: if at all, then only Kulmines! For women who suffer from vaginal yeast infections frequently I strongly recommend to use Kulmines instead of common sanitary articles. Combined with naturopathic therapy the switch to Kulmines is successful in nearly all cases."

Kulmine

and pads
deliberately natural

We have been producing cloth pads and pantyliners made out of the best eco-quality cotton and silk for nearly 25 years – made with love and by hand in Germany.

We stand for a respectful handling of one's own body and respect for each other in a community. Because of this, Kulmine products are free of irritating or genetically engineered substances and plastic. Through this, we also protect nature together, as Kulmines are re-usable for many years.

For your well-being, and the environment.

Hygienic and reliable protection, easy to use products:

Whether you soak or rinse beforehand or put your Kulmines directly in the washing machine: cleaning your cloth pads and pantyliners is no big thing. And it's easy to adapt our assortment to your specific needs as we offer a big variety of different sizes and forms.

ECOLOGICAL AND SUSTAINABLE

- long-living and economical: we use premium-quality fabric and have an elaborate manufacturing process, due to this our Kulmine cotton products last 5-15 years when regularly used.
- eco-friendly: from production to sale, hardly any material waste is produced. All materials are biodegradable.
- caringly and professionally handmade in our family company in Osna-brück, Germany.
- your products are sold directly from the producer.

RELIABLE AND CONVENIENT

- Kulmine cloth pads and pantyliners are as absorbant as comparable single-use products.
- They stay in well-fitted cotton underwear without slipping out of place. The individual selection of products allow for a good fit in all types of underwear
- Kulmines with wings also fit well in wider or synthetic underwear.
- Cloth pads & pantyliners are always available in your home, you won't run out of them at the wrong time.
- Foldable pads and pantyliners can be folded in different ways, wide or narrow, long or short, thick or thin. When you are out and about you can easily fold a fresh side to the top.

SKIN TOLERANT AND COMFORTABLE

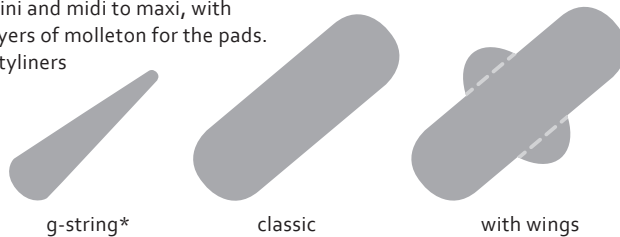

- pure natural cloth made out of Eco-Cotton (GOTS and higher certificated) or Silk (peace silk)
- soft and protecting on the skin
- no problematic chemical additives. The material and the dyes conform with the highest standard worldwide for ecological natural fabrics.
- naturally breathable and temperature balancing. Due to this Kulmines are better at preventing bacterial and yeast infections than many convential menstrual products.
- malodour, sweating, itching, allergic reactions and infections often disappear once you start using Kulmines.

APPRECIATIVE AND CARING

- Our products give each woman the opportunity to rediscover their bodies beyond externally dictated taboos. Instead of distance to the processes occurring in the female body, there is closeness and appreciation. This is a development that Kulmine customers not only explain as a better wearing comfort but also as an increase in self-esteem and physical feeling.
- The use of Kulmine products contributes in orienting yourself towards natural occurrences and if possible living in harmony with them. This can help women to obtain and preserve health and vitality.

The available shapes come in different sizes from mini and midi to maxi, with additional layers of molleton for the pads.

HYGIENIC AND EASY TO CLEAN

- The cotton pads tolerate almost everything. Hot washing as well as tumble dryer, ironing or lying on the radiator.
- Washing the pads and liners at 60°C, will make them hygienically clean and bacteria free (however, most women are satisfied with 40°C). Natural white fabrics can even be washed with 95°C if necessary.
- With the first laundry slight pilling can occur which helps to keep the pads in place. Also it may shrink in length: flannel ca. 5%, molleton ca. 8%.

Pantyliners that are used throughout your cycle and not during menstruation, don't need any specific maintenance. They can be washed the same way as the rest of your underwear.

How easily blood is washed out differs from woman to woman.

- Many women can just put their used Kulmines directly into the laundry and even the natural colored models will become spotlessly clean.
- Some women need one additional step to clean their pad (especially in case of spotting – please feel free to visit our website for further information). Those women often prefer the models in crimson, raspberry or nightblack.
